MONUMENTAL
SPORTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Monumental Sports & Entertainment (MSE) located in Washington, D.C., is one of the largest integrated sports and entertainment companies in the country with one of the most diverse partnership groups in all of sports. MSE owns and operates five professional sports teams: NBA's Washington Wizards, 2018 NHL Stanley Cup Champion Washington Capitals, WNBA's 2019 Championship Washington Mystics, 2021 & 2020 NBA 2K League Champion Wizards District Gaming, and the NBA G League's Capital City Go-Go. The company is also co-owner of aXiomatic, which has controlling interest in global esports franchise Team Liquid, and owns and operates Capital One Arena in Washington, D.C. MSE also manages MedStar Capitals Iceplex, the state-of-the-art training facility for the Capitals and EagleBank Arena on George Mason University's campus. In conjunction with the District of Columbia and Events DC, MSE is a partner in Entertainment and Sports Arena (ESA), a sports and entertainment facility in Southeast D.C. on the St. Elizabeths East campus which opened in September 2018. ESA houses the MedStar Health Performance Center, the training facility for the Wizards, Go-Go and Mystics, and a 4,200-seat arena which serves as the home of the Mystics and Go-Go. MSE also co-owns and operates Monumental Sports Network (MSN) with the NBC Sports Group. MSN is the mid-Atlantic region's top destination for exclusive fan experiences and original sports content across desktop, tablet, mobile and OTT/streaming devices. In July 2020, MSE opened the first ever in-arena sportsbook, through a partnership with William Hill, with a temporary location set-up within the Capital One Arena lobby. The permanent location for the Caesars Sportsbook by William Hill opened within Capital One Arena in May 2021.

WIZARDS OWNERSHIP AND PARTNERS

TED LEONSIS

Founder, Chairman, Principal Partner & Chief Executive Officer, Monument Sports & Entertainment

TED LEONSIS is founder, chairman, principal owner and chief executive officer of Monumental Sports & Entertainment (MSE), one of the largest integrated sports and entertainment companies in the country with one of the most diverse partnership groups in all of sports.

MSE owns and operates the NHL's 2018 Stanley Cup Champion Washington Capitals, the NBA's Washington Wizards, the 2019 WNBA Champion Washington Mystics, the 2020 and 2021 NBA 2K League Champion Wizards District Gaming, the NBA G League's Capital City Go-Go, and the 20,000+ seat capacity Capital One Arena in downtown Washington, D.C.

The partnership also operates MedStar Capitals Iceplex, the Washington Capitals' training facility and front office headquarters, MedStar Health Performance Center at the Entertainment and Sports Arena, the Washington Wizards' training facility and front office, and George Mason University's EagleBank Arena. MSE is also co-owner of aXiomatic, which has controlling interest in global esports franchise Team Liquid. Mr. Leonsis is co-executive chairman of aXiomatic.

An integrated media, technology, sports, and entertainment company, MSE also owns Monumental Sports Network, a first-of-its-kind regional sports network for digital, mobile, and over-the-top (OTT) platforms that allows fans to access content whenever and wherever they want.

MSE and NBC Sports Washington, part of the NBC Sports Group, have developed an advanced media partnership that includes NBCSW's exclusive media rights to the Capitals and Wizards, and MSE is an equity partner with NBCSW. NBC Sports Group has also invested in Monumental Sports Network, creating a cross-equity leadership structure.

As part of a joint venture with the DC Mayor's Office and Events DC, MSE unveiled the Entertainment and Sports Arena, a brand-new sports and entertainment facility in Southeast D.C. on the St. Elizabeths East campus, which opened in the Fall of 2018. This cutting-edge 4,200-seat venue and basketball facility includes a top-of-the-line practice facility for the Wizards and serves as the Mystics and Go-Go home court. The arena is part of the St. Elizabeths East Campus redevelopment and is expected to generate significant expansion of arts, cultural, entertainment and civic programming. This project is designed to be a catalyst for new opportunities in Ward 8 and citywide and create a destination for residents and visitors.

In 2019, Monumental Sports & Entertainment and William Hill (now Caesars Entertainment) announced the first ever, in-arena sports book deal in North America. The pair opened a temporary location at Capital One Arena's box office in July 2020, while construction on the permanent space was underway. In May 2021, the ribbon was cut on a nearly 20,000 square foot destination experience for local, regional, and global travelers, blending a Michelin-star chef designed dining experience with a sports betting operation. This marquee location not only flexes into the arena experience – but it also boasts live games on over 100 screens, hosts dozens of betting windows kiosks, and is complemented by 24 massive LED concourse screens across the arena which broadcasts the latest information on sports lines and statistics.

Mr. Leonsis serves on the Board of Governors for the NBA and NHL as well as on the Executive Committee of the NHL. He is also chairman of the NBA Media Committee, is on the NBA Blockchain Committee, and a major investor in the Professional Fighters League.

As cofounder and partner at Revolution Growth, a $1 billion set of investment funds, Leonsis and his partners make a select group of speed-up capital investments in businesses each year, typically investing $25-50 million per deal.

Mr. Leonsis is a nationally recognized entrepreneur, investor, philanthropist, and award-winning filmmaker, who has won Peabody and Emmy awards.

He also serves on the boards of several public companies, American Express and Groupon; and is the former vice chairman and president of AOL.

FRANCHISE LEGEND BOB DANDRIDGE INDUCTED INTO HALL OF FAME

By Jackson Filyo

IN EARLY SEPTEMBER IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS., FRANCHISE LEGEND BOB DANDRIDGE was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. Dandridge, a two-time champion and four-time All-Star who played four seasons in D.C., joined 15 other inductees, including former Wizards Chris Webber, Paul Pierce and Ben Wallace.

"I bring to this celebration my village of friends, classmates, teammates, coaches, mentors, neighbors and friends of youth that I have trained and coached," Dandridge said during his enshrinement speech. "A Hall of Famer once said, 'this Hall of Fame achievement is not for me – this is for my family.' ... I think about the sacrifices my parents, Dorothy and Robert Dandridge, made to make sure my sisters and I had the tools to flourish not for a short time, but for a lifetime."

Each of this year's 16 inductees selected previous Hall of Fame inductees to serve as their presenters during the enshrinement ceremony. Dandridge selected 12-time All-Star Oscar Robertson, his teammate from his time with the Milwaukee Bucks and a Hall of Fame Class of 1980 inductee.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the NBA's all-time leading scorer and another one of Dandridge's notable former teammates, said of his legacy: "Bob Dandridge should be remembered as a great all-around player – offense and defense – someone who really complemented the teammates that he had no matter where he went."

Dandridge was inducted as a distinguished selection of the Veteran's Committee, which requires a player to have been retired for at least 35 years before induction.

"To me, being a Hall of Famer is not about basketball," Dandridge said. "Ya'll know I've had to wait awhile, but there's been so much growth inside of me that I am real grateful for the wait. I've had a chance to be a better father and be a better person."

Dandridge signed with the Bullets as a free agent in 1977 after eight seasons in Milwaukee. In signing with Washington, he was returning home. Dandridge was born and raised in Richmond – and attended Norfolk State University in Virginia.

"I'd been in the Midwest for eight years and it was just special to come back as close to home as I could get to play," Dandridge said in an interview with

BASKETBALL
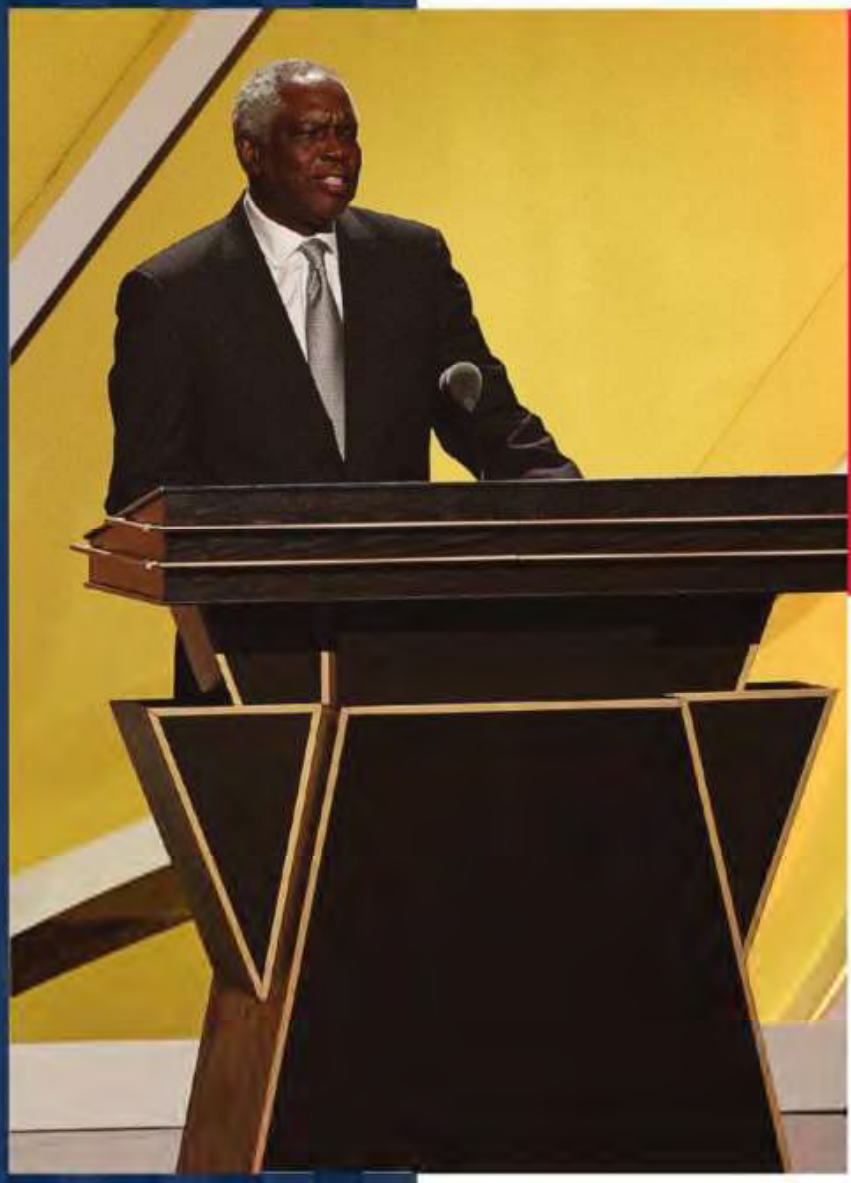
FAME



To me, being a Hall of Famer is not about basketball, ya'll know I've had to wait awhile, but there's been so much growth inside of me that I am real grateful for the wait. I've had a chance to be a better father and be a better person.

WashingtonWizards.com in 2017. "And although I grew up in Virginia, I played a lot of basketball when I was young in Washington, D.C., so Washington D.C. was very special area for me knowing that I could go home and my family and fans out of Virginia could get to see me play more often."

In his four seasons with the Bullets, Dandridge helped lead the team to a championship in 1978 – and was named an All-Star and to the All-NBA and All-Defense teams in 1979. During the team's championship run in 1978, Dandridge averaged 21.2 points, 6.5 rebounds and 3.9 assists in 39.3 minutes per game in 19 playoffs games. Over 221 total games in Washington, Dandridge averaged 18.3 points, 5.5 rebounds and 4.0 assists per game.

Since his playing career ended, Dandridge has stayed active with the organization, playing an integral part in the formation of the Bullets and Wizards Alumni Association.

The full Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame Class of 2021: Rick Adelman, Chris Bosh, Paul Pierce, Bill Russell (coach), Ben Wallace, Chris Webber, Jay Wright, Yolanda Griffith, Lauren Jackson, Val Ackerman (Contributor Committee), Cotton Fitzsimmons (Contributor Committee), Howard Garfinkel (Contributor Committee), Clarence "Fats" Jenkins (Early African American Pioneers Committee), Toni Kukoc (International Committee), Bob Dandridge (Veterans Committee) and Pearl Moore (Women's Veterans Committee).

As an NBA small forward, Bob Dandridge's elevated play had a huge impact on two NBA championship teams. The NBA Hall of Famer (Class of '21) displayed that same talent and ability in leading the Norfolk State University Spartans to tournament titles and championships. His record for the most points in CIAA Tournament history still stands. Bob Dandridge once said that he learned to be a champion while at Norfolk State. He's been a champion on and off the court, even through his transition program for rookies. NSU celebrates and honors alumnus Bob Dandridge and all our students.
We see the future in them.

WIZARDS UNVEIL BUST OF WES UNSELD

THE WASHINGTON WIZARDS UNVEILED THE BUST of franchise legend and NBA Hall of Famer Wes Unseld near section 111 at Capital One Arena earlier this season.

Unseld's wife, Connie, daughter Kim and Wizards Head Coach Wes Unseld Jr. were on hand for the event and were joined by Monumental Sports & Entertainment Founder, Chairman and CEO Ted Leonsis to pay tribute to the franchise's greatest player. The bust, designed by sculptor J Brett Gill, is approximately 10% over life-size and is made of bronze weighing about 90 pounds.

"I do look forward to walking through these halls throughout the season to see not only the bust of my father, but to take a peek up in the rafters and see his retired jersey," said Unseld Jr. "Our home opener will be a special night for a number of reasons, but this makes it that much more special."

Unseld, the franchise's all-time leader in rebounds (13,769) and games played (984), was recently named to the NBA's list of the greatest 75 players in league history as part of the celebration for the 75th anniversary season.

"I would like to thank the Unseld family for allowing us to do this and pay some measure of homage to Wes Unseld and what he meant to our fans, what he meant to our city and what he meant to the NBA," said Leonsis. "I admired the way he played and how he was able to do all of the things that were necessary to build a winning team. I found Wes to be what I wanted to be – a pillaring member of the community while being a great husband, a great father and a great grandfather."

Unseld was drafted by the Baltimore Bullets with the second overall pick in 1968 out of Louisville, where he finished his senior season as a consensus All-American selection. In his first season in Baltimore in 1968-69, Unseld turned the Bullets around by leading them to 21 more victories than the year prior and the team's first ever playoff appearance. His 13.8 point, 18.2 rebound per game averages in his first season earned him Rookie of the Year and MVP Honors, making him just one of two players in league history (along with Wilt Chamberlain) to win both awards in the same season.

The 6-7 center was the rock of the Bullets' success in the 70's, spending his entire 13-year career with the team. Unseld helped lead Baltimore to five consecutive playoff appearances and continued the streak when the team moved to Washington in 1973. In all, the Bullets would make 12 straight playoff appearances during his career, including four Finals trips and the franchise's championship run in 1978, when they defeated the Seattle Supersonics in seven games to take the ring. Unseld was voted Finals MVP, averaging 9.0 points, 11.7 rebounds and 3.9 assists during the championship series.

A five-time All-Star selection, Unseld appeared in a franchise-record 984 games, averaging 10.8 points, 14.0 rebounds and 3.9 assists over his career. Despite being undersized at the center position, Unseld was known for his relentlessness in the paint and bruising nature, as well as his outlet passing and screening ability. He was inducted into The Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame as a player in 1988 and was voted as a top 50 player in league history in 1996 and as one of the league's all-time top 75 players in 2021. Unseld's number 41 jersey was retired in 1981 and is currently one of five jerseys hanging in the rafters at Capital One Arena.

Following his retirement in 1981, Unseld immediately moved into a front office role with the Bullets, first serving as vice president of the team from 1981-87. In 1988, Unseld took over as head coach, leading an 8-19 team to a 30-25 finish and trip to the playoffs. Unseld coached until 1994, winning 202 games – the second-most by a coach in franchise history. Unseld returned to a front office position in 1996, serving as General Manager until 2003 (excluding a brief one-year stint as Michael Jordan took over the duties).

Unseld's career and accomplishments span off the court as well, as he and his wife, Connie, opened the Unselds' School in Baltimore in 1978. The school is one of the few fully-accredited, black-owned, non-church-affiliated elementary schools in Maryland, with Connie serving as the principal, his daughter, Kim, serving as one of the primary teachers at the school, and Wes occasionally serving as the bus driver.

The 6-7 center was the rock of the Bullets' success in the 70's, spending his entire 13-year career with the team.

WIZARDS COACHING AND OPERATIONS STAFF

TOMMY SHEPPARD

General Manager
Washington Wizards

TOMMY SHEPPARD is in his 28th year of service in the NBA. Sheppard was promoted in November from general manager to President and General Manager of the Wizards. He is responsible for all basketball decisions for the Wizards, the G League's Capital City Go-Go and the NBA 2K League's Wizards District Gaming, with the coaching staff, front office, basketball analytics staff and scouts for all teams reporting to him.

Sheppard has earned a reputation as one of the league's most innovative and creative executives. In his first draft as general manager, he selected Rui Hachimura with the ninth overall pick. Hachimura was selected to the 2019-20 NBA All-Rookie Second Team, becoming the fifth player overall in franchise history to be selected to the team. Sheppard followed that selection in 2020 with Deni Avdija, who was selected as a member of the Rising Stars Challenge alongside Hachimura, although the game was not played due to the COVID-19 pandemic. In 18 years in the Wizards' front office, his role included responsibilities with salary cap management, negotiations, draft preparation and talent evaluation of collegiate athletes and professionals, both domestically and abroad. Sheppard also served an assisting role in the recruitment and evaluation of free agents, statistical evaluation of NBA players, the hiring of coaches and personnel and monitoring the Wizards' efforts in the NBA's Player Programs. During his tenure with the team, he has been tasked with organizing the Wizards' training camp and preseason schedules, overseeing the athletic training, strength training, video, technology and equipment areas for the team, and directing in-arena renovations to areas including the Wizards' locker room, players' lounge, family lounge and front offices.

Prior to his arrival in Washington in 2003, Sheppard was a member of the Denver Nuggets organization since 1994, serving as the Nuggets' Senior Director of Team Services and Player Relations. With Denver, he oversaw all internal and external communications functions and served as the club's primary spokesperson. He also scouted internationally and evaluated high school, collegiate and minor league talent. For his efforts in Denver and overall contributions to the communications efforts of the NBA, Sheppard was honored with the prestigious Splaver/McHugh "Tribute to Excellence" Award in 2010, which is given annually by the NBA Public Relations Directors' Association to a current or former member of the NBA public relations family who has demonstrated an outstanding level of performance and service during his or her NBA career.

An active figure within the United States Olympic Movement for over a decade, Sheppard worked as a press attaché for the three Summer Olympic Games (1996, 2000, 2004), as well as three Olympic Festivals and the 2003 Pan American Games. He assisted with the formation of the Northern European Basketball League (which realigned as part of FIBA Europe) and continues to serve as a consultant for Lithuanian legend Sarunas Marciulionis, who was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in 2014, on various basketball projects.

Currently an adjunct professor at Georgetown University for the Sports Industry Management Program, Sheppard graduated from New Mexico State University in 1991, where he was a three-year member of the Aggie football team. After getting his start in media relations as a student assistant at New Mexico State, Sheppard headed the sports information office at UNLV before taking ranks in the National Basketball Association in 1994. He also serves on the Industry Advisory Council for the American Public University and the American Military University Systems. Sheppard and his wife, Rosie, are the parents of five daughters: Bailey, Rebekah, Abby, Emma and Tessa, and two sons, Tommy Jr., and Luke.

WES UNSELD JR.

Head Coach
Washington Wizards

WES UNSELD JR. was named the 25th head coach in franchise history in July 2021, coming to D.C. with over 20 years of coaching experience at the professional level.

Unseld Jr. comes to Washington after spending the past six seasons in Denver, including the 2020-21 season as the Nuggets' associate head coach. Under his guidance, the Nuggets finished fifth in the West in opponents points per game during the 2020-21 season and 11th overall in defensive rating (while finishing sixth overall in offensive rating). During his six seasons in Denver, the Nuggets finished at least 10 games over .500 four times (including a 54-win season in 2018-19) and have made the playoffs each of the last three seasons.

Unseld Jr. was instrumental in both developing Nikola Jokic into the lowest-drafted MVP in NBA history and the year-to-year improvement of Jamal Murray as one of the top young guards in the NBA. He also helped develop several mid-first round and second round picks into important contributors during his time in Denver.

Prior to joining the Nuggets, he spent two seasons (2012-14) as an assistant coach with the Orlando Magic (where he worked with Nikola Vucevic, Tobias Harris and Victor Oladipo during the early stages of their careers) and one season (2011-12) with the Golden State Warriors (where he worked with Stephen Curry and Klay Thompson during the early stages of their careers).

Unseld Jr. returns to Washington after beginning his career with the Wizards as an advance/pro scout in 1997. He would continue in that role through 2005, while also serving as an advance scout for the Mystics for three seasons (which included a stint as an assistant coach in the 1998 season), before being promoted to assistant coach for the Wizards in 2005. During his six seasons on the Wizards bench, Unseld Jr. was instrumental in game planning and player development and was largely credited with the success of the Wizards' offensive game plans, with the team posting four consecutive playoff appearances (2005-08) and three straight top 10 offensive finishes (2004-07).

Unseld Jr. played collegiately at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and played high school basketball at Loyola High School in Towson, MD. He is the son of franchise legend/Hall-of-Famer Wes Unseld Sr., the greatest player in franchise history and one of the 50 greatest players in NBA history.

Assistant Coach, Washington Wizards

PAT DELANY enters his first season as an assistant coach on head coach Wes Unseld Jr.'s staff. Delany comes to Washington after spending the last three seasons as an assistant with the Orlando Magic.

Delany joined Orlando after spending four seasons (2014-18) as an assistant coach with the Charlotte Hornets under Steve Clifford. Delany came to Charlotte after spending the 2013-14 campaign as head coach of the Sioux Falls Skyforce of the NBA G League. During his lone season with Sioux Falls, he led the Skyforce to a 31-19 record, tied for the second-best mark in the league and posted the fifth-best winning percentage in the franchise's 25-year history.

Prior to his time at Sioux Falls, the G League affiliate of the Miami Heat, Delany spent 11 seasons with the Heat, including six seasons as advance scout (2007-13) and four as video coordinator (2003-07). He began with Miami as a video intern in 2002-03. Before his time with the Heat, Delany spent part of the 2001-02 season as a video intern for the Boston Celtics and spent five summers as a basketball camp counselor at places including the University of North Carolina, University of Notre Dame and his alma mater, Saint Anselm College, a Division II school in New Hampshire.

Delany played four seasons at Saint Anselm, where he finished his career as the school's all-time leader in assists with 731. He graduated with a degree in business administration. Delany and his wife, Jackie, have three children, Rylan, Lila May and Rosalie.

Assistant Coach, Washington Wizards

JOSEPH BLAIR joins the Wizards after spending the 2020-21 season in Minnesota as an assistant coach. Blair joined the Timberwolves coaching staff after spending the previous season as an assistant coach with the Philadelphia 76ers.

Prior to the 76ers, Blair spent four seasons with the Houston Rockets G League affiliate, the Rio Grande Valley Vipers, one of which as head coach (2018-19). Blair led the team to the 2019 G League title over the Long Island Nets after amassing a 34-16 overall record. In 2015, he originally joined the Rockets organization as an assistant with Rio Grande Valley. He also spent two seasons as an assistant at his alma mater, the University of Arizona.

Prior to coaching, Blair enjoyed a professional career that spanned 1996-2009 and included stops in France, the USBL, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Russia. He also performed with the Harlem Globetrotters. Blair spent four years at Arizona, where he averaged 14.7 points, 8.9 rebounds and 2.3 blocks per game for the Wildcats as a senior. Following his collegiate career, he was drafted No. 35 overall in the 1996 NBA Draft by Seattle.

Blair founded the Blair Charity Group, which seeks to change the lives of the country's most vulnerable youth. The group and its partners, through the Arizona Basketball Academy, provide access to world class basketball camps and clinics for thousands of underserved youth in southern Arizona.

Assistant Coach, Washington Wizards

MIKE MILLER joins the Wizards after one season with the Oklahoma City Thunder as an assistant coach. He previously spent the 2019-20 season as an assistant coach for the New York Knicks before assuming the role of interim head coach in December 2019.

Miller was moved to his position on the NBA bench after four years at the helm of the NBA G League's Westchester Knicks, where he won G League Coach of the Year in 2018 and guided the Knicks to 108-92 (.540) record overall. Miller led Westchester to the G League Playoffs in three of his four seasons as head coach and was named G League Coach of the Month for November 2016. Before moving to New York in 2015, Miller spent two seasons as an assistant coach with the Austin Spurs, San Antonio's G League affiliate.

Miller has a wealth of collegiate coaching experience, spending time as head coach at Eastern Illinois University (2005-12) and Texas State University (1994-00). The Illinois native was named Southland Coach of the Year in 1997 after leading Texas State to a conference regular season and championship tournament title, as well as an NCAA tournament appearance. He has served as an assistant coach at the collegiate level for UC Riverside (2012-13), Kansas State (2001-05), Texas State (1992-94), Sam Houston State (1990-91) and Western Illinois (1989-90).

Mike and his wife Kelly are parents of two sons, Matt and Joey.

Assistant Coach, Washington Wizards

ZACH GUTHRIE joins the Wizards after spending the 2020-21 season with the Dallas Mavericks. He previously spent five seasons as a member of the Utah Jazz organization, the last four of which he served as an assistant coach.

Prior to moving to Utah, Guthrie served as the manager of advanced scouting for the Orlando Magic (2012-15) and ascended to the role of assistant video coordinator in two years with the San Antonio Spurs.

Guthrie got his start as a basketball operations intern with the Austin Toros of the NBA Development League in 2007 where he worked under coach Quin Snyder, with whom he reunited in Utah.

A native of San Antonio, Guthrie graduated from McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas with a bachelor's degree in business.

Assistant Coach, Washington Wizards

RYAN RICHMAN enters his ninth season with Monumental Basketball. After spending the 2019-20 season as the head coach of the Capital City Go-Go, he spent the 2020-21 season back on the Wizards bench.

Richman spent his first three seasons with the organization in the video room before transitioning to a role as player development coordinator/assistant coach in 2016-17. In that role, he assisted player development during pre-practice, pre-game and after-hours sessions while also analyzing game film and holding responsibility for game scouts and preparation. Richman served as the Wizards' Summer League head coach in 2018, leading current Wizards Thomas Bryant to standout performances.

After playing one season at Skidmore College, Richman transferred to the University of Maryland and served as a scout player for the women's basketball team under Head Coach Brenda Freese, where he learned player development, scouting and film. Richman then worked as a graduate assistant at Maryland under Head Coach Mark Turgeon, where he assisted in day-to-day basketball operations prior to joining the Wizards' staff in 2013.

A native of West Hartford, Connecticut, Richman and his wife, Courtney, have one daughter, Aria.

Assistant Coach/Director of Player Development, Washington Wizards

ALEX MCLEAN enters his first season with the Wizards as Assistant Coach/Director of Player Development, and fifth with the organization.

McLean has been heavily involved with player development since he joined the organization in 2017. In 2016, Alex McLean returned to his alma mater, Liberty University, as a men's basketball graduate assistant after a nine-year professional basketball career in the international ranks. Prior to closing out his career in the Philippines, McLean also spent time playing in Poland, Paraguay, Lebanon, Argentina, Egypt and China.

Upon graduating Liberty, McLean earned a bachelor's degree in sport management. Before making his way to the Hill City, McLean played his first two seasons of collegiate basketball at Suffolk Community College. An all-region and all-conference honoree in 2006, McLean averaged 18.1 points, 13.9 rebounds, 2.1 assists, 2.1 blocks and 1.8 assists per game as a sophomore.

Assistant Coach for Analytics, Washington Wizards

DEAN OLIVER enters his third season with the Wizards as an assistant coach, with a focus on analytics. Oliver last worked in the NBA as the Sacramento Kings' director of analytics/player personnel in 2015. He is widely known as a pioneer in analytics from the NBA down to high school. His book, Basketball on Paper, was written at the same time as Moneyball and helped him enter the NBA in 2004, working for the then-Seattle SuperSonics. He soon joined the Denver Nuggets as director of quantitative Analysis and was part of several very successful teams. He also helped Nuggets VP Mark Warkentien win Executive of the Year in 2008-09. Oliver went to ESPN during the NBA lockout of the 2011 season, where he headed up the construction of their sports analytics group, working on both basketball and football with talent, producers, technology, and executives at the company.

He earned a bachelor's degree in engineering at Cal Tech while playing on the basketball team. Oliver did his Ph.D. in environmental engineering at North Carolina and Stanford while serving as an advance scout in college basketball.

Director of Coaching Operations, Washington Wizards

ERIC SEBASTIAN enters his 21st NBA season and sixth with Washington as director of coaching operations. Prior to joining Washington, he spent seven seasons as the director of basketball operations at the University of Memphis, where he helped the Tigers make four NCAA Tournaments and develop five future NBA players. He assisted Head Coach Josh Pastner with all aspects of the program, including on-campus recruiting, statistical analysis, game scheduling, team travel, practice facility upgrades and in-game management.

Sebastian began his career with the Denver Nuggets where he worked 15 seasons (1994-2009), the last six as director of media relations. The team made the playoffs in each of his last six years, including an appearance in the 2009 Western Conference Finals. He worked closely with Scott Brooks, George Karl, Mike D'Antoni, Mike Brown, and Doug Moe - all of whom earned NBA Coach of the Year honors in their careers. He assisted the league office at the 2008 NBA Finals and several NBA All-Star Games, while also serving as a member of the NBA's PR Advisory Board. In addition to his PR duties, he compiled statistical data and NBA personnel reports, provided information for the NBA Draft, assisted with free agent recruiting and communicated daily roster moves with the league office.

After earning his bachelor's degree from Southern Methodist University in 1994, Sebastian served internships with the World Cup Organizing Committee and the Dallas Cowboys. He completed his master's degree at Memphis in 2013.

He and his wife, Natalie, are the proud parents of sons Kade and Braxton.

ROD THORN

Senior Advisor to the General Manager, Washington Wizards

ROD THORN begins his third season as senior advisor to the general manager and brings over 40 years of front office experience. In this role, Thorn consults with Wizards General Manager Tommy Sheppard on decisions, including personnel, free agency and the draft. The former Baltimore Bullet was originally drafted by the franchise with the second overall pick in 1963 NBA Draft and enjoyed a nine-year playing career.

An NBA veteran of more than four decades, Thorn was named the president of the Philadelphia 76ers on August 12, 2010. He spent the past 10 seasons as president of the New Jersey Nets before resigning on July 15, 2010.

Thorn, the 2001-02 NBA Executive of the Year, joined the Nets on June 27, 2000. During his tenure in East Rutherford, the Nets captured four Atlantic Division titles in a five-season span, including back-to-back Eastern Conference Championships in 2002 and 2003.

Back in June of 2001, Thorn engineered two major deals which helped catapult New Jersey into the league's upper echelon. He traded the rights to Eddie Griffin, the seventh overall pick in the 2001 NBA Draft to the Houston Rockets in exchange for their three first round picks from that same draft, Richard Jefferson, Jason Collins and Brandon Armstrong. The next day, Thorn negotiated a blockbuster six-player trade with Phoenix that landed New Jersey three-time First Team All-NBA guard Jason Kidd in exchange for Stephon Marbury.

Prior to joining the Nets, Thorn spent 14 years working for the NBA league office in Manhattan, where he was the NBA's executive vice president of basketball operations. At the league office, Thorn oversaw all on-court operations, including officiating, game conduct and discipline.

Thorn also served as chair of the Senior Men's Basketball Committee for USA Basketball from 1992 through 2000. He was also a member of the select NBA Rules Committee which formed in March of 2001 and was chaired by Jerry Colangelo, CEO of the Phoenix Suns. That committee advised the NBA's Board of Governors on changes in the league's playing rules including the elimination of illegal defense guidelines, the institution of a new defensive three-second rule, eight seconds instead of 10 to advance the ball past midcourt and the elimination of incidental contact if it does not impede the progress of the player with the ball.

In 1978, Thorn began a seven-year stint as general manager of the Chicago Bulls, which included drafting Michael Jordan in 1984. During his tenure with Chicago, Thorn was also the interim head coach for 30 games in 1982.

Thorn was the second overall pick in the 1963 NBA Draft by the Baltimore Bullets. After one season in Baltimore, he spent a season and a half in both Detroit and St. Louis before finishing his career in Seattle. In 466 career games played, Thorn averaged 10.8 points, 3.1 rebounds and 2.6 assists.

Following the conclusion of his NBA playing career in 1970-71, Thorn joined Lenny Wilkens' coaching staff in Seattle. In 1973-74, he was an assistant coach for the ABA Nets and helped lead Julius Erving and company to their first-ever ABA Championship. Two years later, he became head coach of the ABA's Spirits of St. Louis. In 1976, Thorn was named an assistant coach with the Nets when they moved into the NBA.

A graduate of the University of Washington with a B.A. in political science, Thorn also holds an honorary degree from West Virginia University and served on the school's Board of Directors for five years. Thorn was an All-American guard at West Virginia, following in the footsteps of Jerry West and Rod Hundley.

Thorn and his wife, Peggy, have a son, Jonathan, and twin daughters, Amanda and Jessica.

Assistant General Manager/Strategy & Analytics, Washington Wizards

BRETT GREENBERG is in his 13th season with the Wizards and his third in his role as assistant GM/strategy and analytics. Greenberg most recently completed his fourth as vice president of basketball analytics/salary cap Management. In his role, Greenberg leads the Wizards' analytical efforts while assisting with all salary cap and Collective Bargaining Agreement matters.

Prior to his promotion, Greenberg served as basketball operations assistant/video coordinator for the team for two seasons, where he played a vital role in the coaching staff's preparation by providing video breakdowns of opposing teams and individual players as well as video analysis of the individual strengths and weaknesses of Wizards players. He served as basketball operations assistant/technology during his first two seasons with the organization.

Greenberg came to Washington after spending the 2008-09 season in the basketball operations department for the Miami Heat as a video intern. Prior to working for the Heat, he served as a student manager and assistant video coordinator for four years for the Duke men's basketball team from 2004-08. Greenberg graduated from Duke University in 2008 with a degree in Sociology.

A native of Owings Mills, Maryland, Greenberg graduated from McDonogh School in 2004. While in high school, he worked for the men's basketball team at Stevenson University (formerly Villa Julie College) for two seasons.

Vice President of College Personnel, Washington Wizards

FRANK ROSS enters his ninth season with the Wizards and his fifth as vice president of college personnel. He spent his first two seasons with the team as Director of Player Personnel.

The Washington, D.C. native served six seasons as director of east coast scouting for the Oklahoma City Thunder. In that role, Ross was an integral part in evaluating college and international player talent, providing projections and recommendations on draft selections.

Prior to joining the Thunder organization, Ross served as a scout with the Charlotte Bobcats from 2003-07, evaluating college and minor league player talent. While with the Bobcats, he was also a part of an NBA delegation that conducted the Basketball Without Borders program in South Africa for two summers. Ross joined the Bobcats after two seasons as the lead assistant coach with the University at Albany (NY).

Prior to joining the collegiate coaching ranks, Ross was a five-year veteran of the Arlington County Police Department in Northern Virginia. His areas of responsibility included drug enforcement as well as youth and drug counseling. In 1993, Ross received the Meritorious Service Award for extraordinary humanitarian effort.

A fifth-round draft choice (108th pick) by the Philadelphia 76ers in the 1987 NBA Draft, Ross also participated in free agent camp for the Washington Bullets prior to the 1988 NBA season and played professionally in the Continental Basketball Association with the Sioux Falls Skyforce and in Germany with TTL Bamberg.

Ross attended American University in Washington D.C., where he was a two-time All-Colonial Athletic Association selection and continues to rank in the top-10 in 12 statistical categories, including fourth all-time in career scoring with 1,921 points. Ross was inducted into American University's Hall of Fame in 2007. Ross, an avid cyclist and recreational golfer, resides in Greensboro, North Carolina, with his wife Lindsey and two sons, Jalen and Jaxon.

Vice President of Pro Personnel, Washington Wizards

JOHNNY ROGERS enters his third season with Washington after spending three seasons as vice president of pro personnel for the Los Angeles Clippers. In this new role, Rogers will oversee NBA and G League scouting as well as the team's international scouting efforts. Prior to joining the Clippers, Rogers served as a scout for the Oklahoma City Thunder and a television analyst for EuroLeague games.

A native of Fullerton, California, Rogers played collegiately at Stanford where he was named PAC-10 Freshman of the Year in 1982, before transferring to UC Irvine. Rogers was drafted 34th overall in the 1986 drafted by the Sacramento Kings. He spent most of his 18-year playing career in Europe, where he became a two-time EuroLeague champion with Panathinaikos in 2000 and 2002.

Senior Director of Pro Personnel, Washington Wizards

ANTAWN JAMISON begins his third season in the Wizards' front office as senior director of player personnel. Prior to his return to Washington, Jamison spent two seasons as a scout for the Los Angeles Lakers. He works with vice president of pro personnel Johnny Rogers on the organization's NBA and G League scouting.

Jamison played for the Wizards for six seasons (2004-10), posting averages of 20.8 points and 8.9 rebounds and earning two All-Star selections with Washington. The 17-year NBA pro averaged 18.5 points and 7.5 rebounds in 1,083 career games (864 starts) with Golden State, Dallas, Washington, Cleveland, the Los Angeles Lakers and Los Angeles Clippers.

Jamison played collegiately at the University of North Carolina where he won the Wooden and Naismith Awards as the most outstanding college basketball player as a junior during the 1997-98 season. He was originally selected fourth overall by the Toronto Raptors in the 1998 NBA Draft.

Senior Director of College Personnel, Washington Wizards

TONY DILEO enters his eighth season with the Wizards, and his first as senior director of college personnel. He spent the previous three seasons director of college personnel and the three prior as a scout, a position he held since joining the team in 2013.

DiLeo brings more than a quarter-century of front office and coaching experience to the Wizards' front office staff. Prior to joining Washington, DiLeo spent 23 years with the Philadelphia 76ers, working in various roles. In 2012, he was promoted to General Manager from his former position of senior vice president of Basketball Operations, a position he held since September of 2003. From 1999 to 2003, he served as the team's director of player personnel.

During the 2008-09 season, DiLeo stepped in as the Sixers' head coach following their 9-14 start and guided the team to a 32-27 mark for the remainder of the season while qualifying for a playoff berth.

Prior to joining Philadelphia, DiLeo built his extensive international experience through 10 years of playing and coaching in West Germany. He coached both men's and women's teams during that span, winning nine nationals titles in the country's top division. DiLeo also served as the West German Federation National Coach from 1981 though 1985 and was named the country's coach of the year in 1987.

In 1984, DiLeo wrote and published the European Basketball Handbook, a guide designed to help acclimate Americans playing overseas. He also has written a manual on rule differences among international basketball, the NBA and the NCAA.

A star at Cinnaminson (N.J.) High School, DiLeo went on to play at LaSalle University. As a junior at LaSalle, he was a first team Academic All-American and graduated maxima cum laude from the School of Business. He and his wife, Anna, have two sons, T.J. and Max.

Director of Player Health, Washington Wizards

DR. MICHAEL ASHTON, a dual-credentialed clinician, enters his second season with the Monumental Basketball Athlete Care and Performance group as director of player health. He plays a leading and pivotal role in the provision of medical care, integrative rehabilitation services and injury reduction strategies. In addition, he performs the functions of a head athletic trainer and provides technical leadership to the athletic trainers across the Monumental basketball platform.

After 10 years working as a physical therapist in orthopedic and sports settings, Ashton joined the Oklahoma City Thunder organization as a physical therapist and athletic trainer, serving in a dual role for the G League's Oklahoma City Blue before transitioning to the Thunder full time in 2018.

Ashton obtained a doctor of physical therapy degree from Hampton University and completed a postdoctorate residency and fellowship in manual therapy with the Ola Grimsby Institute for two years. In addition, he holds a bachelor of science degree in athletic training from High Point University. He is also a certified strength and conditioning specialist, board-certified clinician in orthopedic and sports physical therapy, fellow of the American Academy of Orthopedic Manual Physical Therapists and registered international sports physical therapist.

A West Virginia native, Ashton and his spouse, Jocelyn, have two daughters, Sariah and Amari.

Director of Physical and Performance Therapy, Washington Wizards

DR. MICHAEL DAVIS enters his second season with Monumental Basketball Athlete Care and Performance group as director of physical and performance therapy. He provides experience in the prevention, clinical management, and return to play strategies for the Wizards, while also providing technical leadership across the Monumental basketball platform.

With over 17 years of experience working as a physical therapist in neurological, orthopedic, circulatory, and sports settings (working with athletes from the NBA, NFL, NHL, MLS, and combat sports), Davis comes to the organization most recently from the Oklahoma City Thunder. He joined the Thunder organization as a performance physical therapist in 2015, working with the team for the past five seasons.

The Virginia native obtained his doctorate of physical therapy degree from Temple University, holds a bachelor of science degree in exercise science from Virginia Commonwealth University and is certified in dynamic neuromuscular stabilization among many other disciplines. Davis and his spouse, Cece, have a daughter, Halo, and a son, Honor.

Senior Performance Therapist, Washington Wizards

DR. POWELL BERNHARDT will join the Monumental Basketball Athlete Care and Performance group in the Senior Performance Therapist position. He will add this experience in the movement optimization, clinical management, and return to play strategies to the Wizards while also providing technical support across the Monumental Basketball platform.

Powell Bernhardt received his Doctor of Physical Therapy degree from Temple University. He received several awards, including the Matt Williams MPT Scholarship Award and the American Physical Therapy Association Minority Award for Educational Excellence. In addition, he holds a Bachelor of Science in Biology and a Master of Science in Applied Computer Science. He is also a Certified Strength and Coriditioning Specialist, Certified Orthopedic Manual Therapist, and member of the Orthopedic Section and Pain Management Special Interest Group of the American Physical Therapy Association.

After 13 years working as a Physical Therapist in orthopedic and sports settings, Powell joined the Charlotte Hornets as director of Performance Therapy in 2016.

VIRGINIA STATE POLICE

Chief Planning & Operations Officer, Washington Wizards

SASHI BROWN is in his third season with the team and was recently promoted to President of Monumental Basketball and Special Advisor to the Office of the CEO at Monumental Sports & Entertainment. He leads various operations for the Wizards, Mystics and Go-Go, including research & information systems, technology, equipment, team communications, finance, facilities, security and player engagement and will also oversee Monumental Sports & Entertainment's venue operations.

In 2016, Brown was promoted to executive vice president of football operations for the Cleveland Browns, where he was responsible for developing the organization's short and long-term visions and strategies in collaboration with the ownership group. He also oversaw Cleveland's scouting functions and management of the roster and salary cap.

Brown was originally hired by Cleveland in 2013 as executive vice president and general counsel, where he served the franchise in both football and business capacities. He was responsible for overseeing the roster and salary cap while also directing the team's football administration functions, including negotiation of players contracts. On the business side, his duties included insurance and risk management, licensing and intellectual property issues and litigation management.

Brown started his career as an attorney at Wilmer, Cutler, Pickering, Hale and Dorr in Washington, DC, where he represented clients in a variety of transactions including venture capital and private equity deals as well as mergers and acquisitions. He joined the Jacksonville Jaguars in 2005 where he served as senior vice president and general counsel, working on both the football and business side of the franchise's operations.

Chief of Athlete Care & Performance, Washington Wizards

DANIEL MEDINA enters his third season in Washington as the team's chief of athlete care and performance, having spent the last two seasons as the vice president of athlete care for the Philadelphia 76ers. In his role with the 76ers, Dr. Medina oversaw all areas of athlete care and performance, including the medical and sports science departments, as well as the athletic training, physiotherapy, nutrition and strength and conditioning departments.

Prior to Philadelphia, Dr. Medina spent over a decade with Futbol Club Barcelona. Dr. Medina finished his tenure with the team as deputy director of the sports science and medical department, where he managed 2,000 athletes and more than 125 athlete care and performance staff members.

Dr. Medina served as team physician for FC Barcelona from 2008-2015 and first joined its medical services department in 2005. He also served as a driving force behind FC Barcelona's award-winning Barca Innovation Hub. Dr. Medina was heavily involved in Barca Innovation Hub's evaluation and research of emerging products, particularly those designed to aid in athlete health and performance.

Dr. Medina boasts an extensive résumé in athlete care and sports performance. In addition to earning a PhD from the University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria Medical School in Spain, Dr. Medina holds master's degrees from the University of Barcelona (Evaluative Medicine) and University Pablo Olavide (Futbol Conditioning and Rehab). He also graduated from the International Olympic Committee's sports nutrition program and participated in continuing health care education programs at Harvard Business School.

Vice President of Player Performance, Washington Wizards

MARK SIMPSON enters his third season in Washington, as Vice President of Player Performance. Before joining Monumental Basketball, Simpson spent three seasons as director of performance for the Los Angeles Clippers. In Los Angeles, Simpson oversaw the team's player load management strategies, including the production of individualized off-season, pre-season, and in-season load-management plans that incorporated game minute management, practice and workout recommendations. Prior to working for the Clippers, Simpson spent five seasons as the director of performance science with the Oklahoma City Thunder.

Before coming to the NBA, Simpson held positions in Olympic and professional sports in England, including posts as head of strength and conditioning for the Great Britain Cycling Team and head of strength and conditioning for the English Institute of Sport.

A native of West Yorkshire, England, Simpson holds a master's and a bachelor's degree in sport science from Loughborough University in England.

Vice President of Player Dev. & Engagement, Washington Wizards

JOHN THOMPSON III enters his third season as Monumental Basketball's vice president of player development and engagement. Thompson brings a vast array of experience to DC, including 13 years (2004-2017) as head coach at iconic Georgetown University.

Thompson arrived at Georgetown with a unique pedigree as the son of one Hall of Fame coach and the student of another, having played basketball for the legendary coach Pete Carril as an undergraduate at Princeton University. He achieved several coaching milestones, including an NCAA Final Four appearance, two NCAA Sweet-16 appearances, three Big East regular season championships and one Big East tournament championship. In his four years as head coach at Princeton, Thompson won three Ivy League championships. Overall, he owns a stellar 346-193 (.641) all-time record and was named Big East Coach of the Year (2013), NABC Coach of the Year (2007) and was a two-time recipient of the Black Coaches Association (BCA) Male Coach of the Year.

Following his tenure at Georgetown, Thompson continued his path as a stalwart in basketball, serving as an analyst for ESPN and an assistant coach for the USA Men's National Team (where he assisted head coach Jeff Van Gundy as the team qualified for the 2019 FIBA World Cup). He also served on the Commission on College Basketball (established by the NCAA Board of Governors, Division I Board of Directors and the NCAA president and chaired by former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice to fully examine critical aspects of Division I men's basketball) and was the recipient of the 2019 Guardians of the Game Award for Service, presented by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC).

Off the court, Thompson has been an active member of his community. His greatest contribution was establishing the John Thompson III Foundation in 2007 to create a positive and lasting impact on the city he cherishes, Washington, DC. He currently he serves on the boards of his alma mater, Gonzaga College High School, the NABC and the non-profit, Men Against Breast Cancer.

Vice President of Player Engagement, Washington Wizards

Entering her 20th season in the Washington Wizards organization, SASHIA JONES has established the organization as a pillar of philanthropy in the DC metropolitan community.

Previously serving as vice president of community relations, the team has established signature events such as Salute to the Stars, Family to Family, the Special Olympics Unified game and the Thanksgiving Day Assist which have all been recognized as best practices in the NBA.

Jones has also implemented programs and initiatives for Wizards All-Stars John Wall and Bradley Beal that have led to each winning the NBA's Community Assist Season-long award. This award is given to an NBA player who best reflects the passion that the league and its players share for giving back to their communities. In addition to established community events, Jones has partnered the organization with numerous social and charitable organizations throughout the DC metropolitan area, including Make-a-Wish which helps fulfill the wishes of children experiencing health challenges, and Bright Beginnings Inc., which assists children experiencing homelessness with opportunities to receive educational assistance and special experiences during every holiday season.

A native of Silver Spring, Maryland, Jones earned her bachelor's degree in journalism from Bowie State University.

Vice President of Operations and Technology, Washington Wizards

KEVIN CULLEN enters his third season in Washington after spending the past decade as Duke men's basketball director of information technology. After graduating from Duke in 2007, Cullen returned to the Blue Devils in 2008 as the program's video coordinator. Following his promotion in 2013, to director of information technology, Cullen oversaw all aspects of the team's video needs, including opponent scouting, film exchange, managing the video room and supplying the coaching staff with game film. Cullen also served in a similar capacity with USA Basketball from 2008-16.

A Durham, N.C., native, Cullen earned his bachelor's degree in computer science from Duke University and his masters in business administration from Duke's Fuqua School of Business.

Vice President of Research and Information Systems,
Washington Wizards

DR. KATHY EVANS is in her first season as Vice President of Research and Information Systems with Monumental Basketball. In this newly-created role, Dr. Evans will oversee Monumental Basketball's research department, supporting the Wizards, Mystics, Go-Go and Wizards District Gaming. She is the first woman to head the research or analytics department of an NBA franchise.

Prior to joining the Wizards, Dr. Evans served as the director of strategic research for the Toronto Raptors. In that role, she advised various departments including the front office, coaching and medical departments. She oversaw the data sources to build a draft prospects database as well as build models for player projections of draft prospects. Dr. Evans was also instrumental in helping analyze methods and build models for player evaluation and on-court strategy.

Dr. Evans spent two years as a data scientist with Verily Life Sciences where she helped create models predicting medication adherence and analyzed medication adherence interventions to measure causal impact. She received undergraduate and graduate degrees from Harvard University and UC Berkeley, ultimately earning a doctorate in biostatistics from Harvard.

Suffered a partially torn ACL in his right knee in just the third game of the 2020-21 season

Was one of three players in the league to increase their ppg in every season between 2014-15 and 2019-20 joining Giannis Antetokounmpo (seven straight) and Bojan Bogdanovic (six straight)

PROFESSIONAL In 320 career NBA games (133 starts) over seven seasons between Brooklyn (2016-21) and Detroit (2014-16), has averaged 12.9 points, 2.8 rebounds and 5.0 assists in 25.7 minutes per game... Has shot .410 overall from the floor, .318 from beyond the arc and .794 from the free-throw line.

2020-21 Appeared in only three games during the 2020-2021 season, after undergoing surgery to repair a partially torn ACL he suffered on December 27, 2020.

2019-20: Appeared in 64 games (49 starts) with Brooklyn, registering averages of 20.6 ppg, 3.5 rpg and 6.8 apg in 31.2 mpg...Shot .415 (424-of-1021) from the field, .308 (123-of-400) from 3-point range and .778 (347-of-446) from the free throw line... Set single-season career highs in ppg, rpg, FTM/game (5.4), FTA/game (7.0), total FTM (347), total FTA (446), apg, mpg, offensive rating (110.5), net rating (1.1) and usage rate (.287)...Increased his ppg and FTM/game for the sixth straight season...Led the team in apg, free throws made and free throws attempted, while ranking second in ppg and offensive rating and third in double-doubles (nine); he had registered 10 double-doubles in his NBA career prior to the 2019-20 season, with a previous single-season career-high of seven (2017-18 campaign)...Was one of three players to appear in every game, joining Jarrett Allen and Taurean Prince...Earned his first-career Player of the Week honor for games played from 11/18 – 11/24...Finished 18th in the league in apg (sixth in the East)... Ranked ninth in the league in drives/game (17.1) and drive ppg (10.5); he increased his drives/game and drive ppg in each of his four seasons as a Net...His 20.6 ppg were the second-most in the league for a player who was not a first round pick, trailing only Khris Middleton's 21.1 ppg (Middleton was the 39th pick in the 2012 NBA Draft)... His 18 games with 10+ FTA were the most for a Nets guard in a season since Devin Harris' 28 in the 2008-09 campaign... Attempted 15+ free throws four times, while no other Net in the Brooklyn era (2012-20) attempted 15+ free throws in more than one game in a season...Attempted 53 free throws during 'clutch' time (last five minutes of a game with the score within five points), tied with Jimmy Butler for the most in the league...Ranked seventh in the league in both 'clutch' minutes (139) and 'clutch' points (104)...Scored in double figures 58 times, including 31 games of 20-29 points, six games of 30-39 points and one 40-point game...His 38 games with 20+ points marked a single-season career high (he posted 18 such games in the 2018-19 season)...His seven games with 30 or more points eclipsed his 30-point games total from his previous five seasons combined (five); the Nets were 5-2 in games Dinwiddie tallied 30+ points in...Became just the sixth player in franchise history to average 20.0+ ppg and 6.5+ apg in a season, joining D'Angelo Russell (2018-19), Deron Williams (2011-12), Devin Harris (2008-09), Stephon Marbury (1999-00 and 2000-01) and Micheal Ray Richardson (1984-85)...Joined Trae Young as the only Eastern Conference players to average 20.0+ ppg and 6.5+ apg... Averaged 21.8 ppg on the road (32 road games played), which marked the highest road ppg for a Net (min. 10 road games played) since Vince Carter averaged 21.9 ppg on the road (39 road games played) in the 2008-09 season...Averaged a career-best 27.0 ppg in December...Handed out 8.2 apg in Feb., to go along with 19.2 ppg and 4.4 rpg in 32.3 mpg; the 8.2 apg were the second-most he's averaged in a month in his career (high: 9.1 apg in Feb. 2018)... With 3,900 points in his Nets career) in points scored, trailing only Brook Lopez (6,065) and Joe Johnson (4,240)...Notched a career-high 41 points (14-of-29 FG, 9-of-10 FT) with five assists in 34 minutes on 12/19 at San Antonio...Posted his second-highest scoring performance of the season in his next game, registering 39 points (13-of-27 FG, 11-of-12 FT), six boards and six assists in 34 minutes on 12/21 vs.. Atlanta...Prior to that two-game stretch, he totaled 31 points and seven assists in 39 minutes on 12/17 at New Orleans...Scored 20+ points in 11 straight home games (11/18 – 1/4), the longest streak for a Net since Carter did it in 13 straight home contests in the 2005-06 season...Dished out double digit assists 10 times, including a career-best 14 dimes, to go along with 26 points, on 1/10 vs.. Miami... Converted game-winning shots on 11/25 at Cleveland, 2/10 at Indiana and 3/10 at L.A. Lakers... Registered his third-career 30/10

Tony Nadal

Gene Conner

Neighbors with a Common Bond

Army and Navy Graduates Tony Nadal (USMA '58) and Gene Conner (USNA '57) have found an ideal place to call home

Location was a key reason for Tony's decision — being near friends in Washington, D.C. as well as living close to a university town and a military facility." Patriots Colony met all three criteria," Tony said.

Gene was on the board of directors at Patriots Colony for years and liked what he saw and heard firsthand. He didn't hesitate when he and his wife Joan decided it was time.

Patriots Colony is a Riverside Health System active retirement community whose Independent Living is exclusive to former military officers, federal civil employees and their spouses or widow(ers). Enjoy gourmet dining options, an enriching social and activities calendar while being close to all the culture of this historic area.

It's an HONOR to serve those that served U.S.!

GO-GO
DEVELOPING MORE THAN JUST PLAYERS

By Jackson Filyo

PRIOR TO THE START OF THE SEASON, THE CAPITAL CITY GO-GO, G LEAGUE AFFILIATE OF THE WIZARDS, named Mike Williams the third head coach in team history – a continuation of Washington's emphasis on utilizing the Go-Go for its developmental opportunities not just for players, but for coaches and front office staffers as well.

Williams, whose background includes four seasons with the University of Maryland basketball team and a stint with the Trail Blazers, has worked with Monumental Basketball for the last three years in player development roles with the Wizards and Go-Go.

His hiring marks a return to normal after the Go-Go players and staff competed as flex-affiliates with the Erie BayHawks in the G League bubble in Orlando last season. In 2019-20, Ryan Richman was named head coach of the Go-Go after six seasons with the Wizards in basketball operations and player development roles. Richman has since rejoined the Wizards staff and will serve as an assistant coach on Wes Unseld Jr.'s staff. Richman was preceded by Jarell Christian, who coached Capital City during its inaugural 2018-19 season. Christian was an outside hire, joining the organization after four seasons with the G League's Oklahoma City Blue, but remained with the Wizards' organization afterward as an assistant coach.

"With the player development and coaching staff we have with the Wizards, we have a lot of talent that has a lot of coaching potential," Go-Go general manager Amber Nichols said. "What better way to grow that potential than to utilize them as head coaches for the Go-Go? I think that speaks to Monumental Basketball and this idea that they grow internally."

Nichols assumed her current role in a similar fashion, becoming the second female general manager in G League history when she was promoted to the role earlier this year. She worked as director of basketball operations during the Go-Go's inaugural season and assistant general manager of operations before taking over as general manager.

"We have the best situation in the G League," Nichols said. "Just the cohesiveness that's built. I can walk down the hall and talk to Tommy Sheppard. Mike can walk down the hall and talk to Wes Unseld Jr. It's something that a lot of teams don't have and it's invaluable for us to have that type of access."

Williams, too, calls the Go-Go infrastructure the best in the G League, highlighting how helpful that cohesiveness is on the player development side.

"The access that our players and staff will have to the Wizards is unparalleled," he said. "For our guys to see how NBA players work, how they approach the day-to-day grind I think will be very beneficial. A lot of times, your G League team is so far away that you never see the NBA personnel. Just having opportunities every day to be seen by somebody from the NBA team, whether it's a coach or a player or somebody in the front office, it's very valuable."

Williams and Richman have developed a rapport dating back years. Each worked with the University of Maryland basketball team before joining the NBA ranks and have shared a dialogue about coaching ever since. That relationship has persisted as each climbed their respective career ladders, most notably in the 2019-20 season during which Williams ran player development for the Go-Go team led by Richman. Since the hire was announced, Williams says he's leaned on Richman for advice and insight about the job.

"Ryan has been a tremendous resource for me," Williams said. "He's walked me through different ways to approach running practice. He's talked about different ways to make your voice heard, but without being overwhelming to the players to where your people tune you out. He's been open to any questions that I've had. He's an open book."

"I'm so excited for Mike," Richman said. "I think he's going to do such a great job. He's going to take from all the experiences he's had and make it his own. Take what you like, take what you don't like and make it something that you can be proud of at the end of your tenure."

Both said the most important piece of advice is simple: no amount of practice or film study can ready a coach for the real thing.

"You can prepare for it all you want, but the reality is that once you're in the job, nothing can prepare you for it like doing it," Richman said. "That's something that is hard to describe. Calling a timeout in an end-of-game situation and you have 30 seconds to tell them the action and where they need to be."

Luckily for Williams, he gained valuable experience in that department last season, serving as head coach of the Erie BayHawks, the Go-Go's flex-affiliate in the G League bubble, for two games – including a win over the Lakeland Magic on February 18.

"We kind of threw him in the fire," Nichols said. "Being able to see how he dealt with adversity coaching against two very veteran, seasoned G League coaches. He didn't waver. The guys respected him, his voice and that was something we thought was a good sign that would carry over to him being full coach full time."

"Coaching those two games in the bubble, the thing that sticks with me the most is that regardless of how much you prepare, you've got to be ready to make adjustments because you just don't know what's going to happen during the game," Williams said. "And you have to understand that your team is going to take after your own demeanor."

The Wizards' coaching staff is loaded with G League experience, including three of the team's new assistant coaching hires. Mike Miller spent the 2015-2019 seasons as head coach of the Westchester Knicks, winning G League Coach of the Year in 2018 and leading the team to the playoffs in three of his four seasons. Joseph Blair coached with the Rio Grande Valley Vipers from 2015-19, spending the first three seasons as an assistant and the fourth as head coach. During his one season as head coach, he led the Vipers to a 34-16 record and a championship. Pat Delany, also joining Unseld Jr.'s staff this season, spent the 2013-14 season as head coach of the Sioux Falls Skyforce.

The G League has proven to be a training ground for coaches and executives as much as it has for players – and while the most practical lessons will come on the sidelines, those with G League coaching experience say the lessons you learn about coaching off the court can be just as important.

Player development is something that is involved in everything, it's not just its own entity.

"The little things like making the schedule – when are you going to practice, when are your days off, when are you going to travel, are you going to take a bus or fly?" Richman said. "It's great preparation for all that and making decisions as a leader. It's hard to put into words how valuable the experience is."

"One thing to think about with the G League is that you are around the players all the time," Richman continued. "You're traveling together, you're on an 18-person bus everywhere. You're seeing everyone all the time. That builds a lot of camaraderie, but it also builds up your ability to connect with players."

Richman shared one particularly resonant example from his time as Go-Go head coach.

"I remember we had a tough loss in Fort Wayne. It stung. It was an inflection point in our season. We were traveling back to D.C. early the next morning, sitting around, talking at the airport. It can't always be about basketball. You can't be there at the Fort Wayne airport at 5 a.m. talking about a pick-and-roll coverage from the night before. That's not going to work."

Williams is eager to embrace those challenges that come with the job. Armed with experience on the college and pro level, in both player development and traditional coaching roles, he's proven himself ready despite being the youngest head coach in the league at just 25 years old. Williams says his coaching approach is evolving and that he won't pin himself into a corner with any labels or over-arching declarations about his style, but that an emphasis on player development will be prevalent in everything his Go-Go team does.

"Player development is something that is involved in everything," Williams said. "It's not just its own entity. It's ingrained in everything we do, whether that's in film or on the court – there is always something that we can get better at as individuals that can help our team become more successful."

CAPITAL ONE ARENA STAFF ARE EAGER TO REUNITE WITH FANS

By Jackson Filyo

ON OCTOBER 22, THE WIZARDS HOSTED THEIR FIRST HOME GAME OF THE 2021-22 REGULAR SEASON, WELCOMING FANS BACK INTO CAPITAL ONE Arena after a 2020-21 season played almost entirely without fans. The Wizards faithful assumed their spot in the stands and players and coaches will welcome the return of a home-court advantage.

However, the return of the live-action, in-arena experience means a return to normal for not just the fans and team, but the often-overlooked group of arena staffers who keep the wheels turning on the entire fan experience.

There are between 750-1000 employees on-hand for each event, according to Jordan Silberman, Senior Vice President and General Manager of Capital One Arena. That includes guest relations staff, security, food and beverage workers, cleaning crew, box office staff and more.

"It's a collective team effort to pull off events at Capital One Arena," said Silberman. "Our operations staff gets the building configured for the appropriate event – court down, seats down, hospitality areas set. The cleaning crew that comes in behind making sure the building is clean and ready to go. Our guest relations and security staff that get fans into the building safely and efficiently."

Among those who were eager to reunite with those fans is Clarence Gooch, a guest relations supervisor who has been working at Capital One Arena for 20 years. Gooch – and the staff that he oversees – assists everyone involved in the fan-facing elements of game-night operations, including the ushers and security staff seen throughout the building.

Gooch is one of the Capital One Arena employees who worked throughout the entirety of the 2020-21 season, including the December-April portion of the season in which no fans were able to attend events held at the arena. Capital One Arena staffed about 100 event workers to enforce the protocol and zone requirements put in place by the leagues and cities. For those workers, the eeriness of an empty arena hosting live events was something that stuck with them.

"I worked during the time there were no fans at all," Gooch said. "That was very strange. In 20 years, it was something I had never seen or done before in the arena...You didn't have the interaction with the fanbase. You were basically isolated around the arena. It was different."

Rynarda Ransom is a security manager in her 11th year on the job and oversees officers throughout the arena on game nights and helps manage the flow of foot traffic in and out of the building.

"It was quiet when there were no fans,"

Ransom said. "It was dull. I wasn't used to that. It was odd seeing people play basketball with no one cheering. I could hear their feet on the court. Having them here brings excitement to the game. It was challenging, but we stuck it through."

Maurice Bragg, a self-described people person who has worked at Capital One Arena for over three years, is one of the many security officers tasked with keeping patrons in attendance safe and orderly. Bragg spends most of his time on the event level, monitoring the comings and goings in an area that includes both team personnel and fans.

"It's good having fans back because it's been so long," Bragg said. "We're here to support and make sure the fans are happy when they come in the building and when they leave."

Fans returned to the arena in April in limited capacity, helping the team along their late-season push for the playoffs. Washington welcomed 10% capacity back into building and built up to 50% for their postseason series against Philadelphia. While the atmosphere was noticeably different from the emptiness that hung over the majority of season, it still couldn't match the feeling of a full-capacity arena.

"When they started coming back in smaller numbers, they were still a distance from the floor," Gooch said. "The only interaction I had was when they were coming in the doors or on the concourse."

As fans and staff are welcomed back into the building, a number of steps are being taken to ensure that the game-night environment is safe and healthy. In addition to a mask requirement inside the arena, the concessions payment process has gone cashless to reduce contact and lines. At the building entrances, new ticket pedestals have been installed to reduce close interaction between fans and ticket-takers. No bags are allowed, eliminating another touchpoint between patrons and security.

For Gooch and the other workers around the arena, the Wizards crowd is not a singular entity. Instead, it's a collection of separate pockets of familiar faces that come into their lives a few times every week. With at least 41 Wizards home games and so many other events held at the venue every year, building staffers come to know the regulars on a personal level – friends they not have not seen in over a year and half.

"Some of these longtime fans, you saw them like we were a family in a sense," Gooch said. "We'd been there for so long and some of the fans have had season tickets for so long...A lot of staffers that actually know the fans by name, know their families because they are season ticket holders and they are working in those particular areas and know those fans. A lot of them are looking forward to getting back to their other family."

With the season underway, routinely retuning to Capital One Arena to connect with familiar faces was a welcome change for so many.

"The energy and excitement are a lot of the reason that I am in this business and most people are drawn to it," Silberman said. "The energy and adrenaline you get during live events. It was different last year, playing with limited crowds. To get back to what is so enthralling about this industry and experience is what's great. It's all about the collective fan experience and getting people to come together. It's great to get people back in here to share in that."

"I am excited to have people back," Ransom said. "I'm excited to see people's faces. It makes my job worthwhile. That's why we work these events."

"I can't wait to come to work, do my job and make sure everyone is safe and happy when they come into the arena," Bragg said.

"I am really looking forward to it," Gooch said. "All the supervisors are looking forward to it. We all have these other families with the fans working in different areas. We have a fanbase that we are looking forward to seeing again and just welcoming people back. I get a real kick out of the people coming back and you can put a smile on their face. That goes a long way. We're going to enjoy doing that and we're looking forward to getting back to the new normal."

I am excited to have people back, I'm excited to see people's faces. It makes my job worthwhile. That's why we work these events.

Veterans Moving Forward, Inc., is a 501c3 nonprofit whose HQ and Training Center is located in Dulles, VA. Our not-for-profit provides trained service dogs to veterans dealing with physical and/or mental health challenges at no cost to the veteran or their family.

VMF recently placed a service dog, Zamp, with an Air Force veteran who served in Vietnam and First Gulf War, he suffered severely with PTSD and attempted suicide three times. Zamp is named in honor and memory of Marine legend Louis Zamperini.

Here is his story. "I first meet Zamp back in early 2020 and it was a match made to be! Zamp is an incredibly special Service Dog and everyone who has met him agrees - that he is special. Since he came into my life full-time, he has made a major difference in my life as witnessed by my wife, therapists, and psychiatrists all who agree that they have seen a change in me that they have not seen in the 20+ years that I have been in counseling. But all that has changed since Zamp entered my life. He is a stabilizing force in my life."

Many veterans need support from service dogs like Zamp. Your monthly donation will ensure that we are able to support these veterans across the country.

For more information or to make that tax-deductible donation, please visit the Veterans Moving Forward website: www.vetsfwd.org. Also check out our Facebook page at www.facebook.com/veteransmovingforward.

HelpCureHD aims to help improve the quality of life for those affected by Huntington's Disease by contributing financial, emotional, and mental support while trying to find the cure.

THE PROBLEM

There is no cure for Huntington's Disease. Currently, there is a 50/50 chance a child could inherit the disease if a parent has HD in their family line.

There is a way to stop the gene from being passed on, through in vitro fertilization, or IVF. A procedure that implants embryos that do not have the HD gene can cost upwards of $25,000 - $30,000. This treatment is the only way parents who are at risk can guarantee their biological child will be HD-free.

OUR GOALS

- Provide the finances for families who are at-risk and in financial need and are willing to undergo IVF in order to stop the HD gene from being passed on in their family line.
- Our broader focus is to continue developing partnerships with fertility clinics across the country and raising funds to help cover these costs for many more families.
- HelpCureHD aims to welcome more than 70 HD-free babies through our PGT-IVF grant program in 2021-2022.

Our National Parks

The National Mall welcomes millions every year, but what they see is hardly welcoming.

More than two miles of open space, monuments, and memorials welcome and inspire 25 million visitors to our nation's capital each year. But like many national parks, the National Mall in Washington, D.C., desperately needs our help. Although Congress has proposed some additional investment, "America's front yard" still needs $350 million in federal funding for maintenance, repairs, and preservation. Now is the time to act if we're going to preserve our national parks in time for their upcoming centennial, and ensure they can be enjoyed by our children and our grandchildren.

You can help with a simple letter. Visit NPCA.org/mall. Or call 1-800-NAT PARK.

Looking for ways to save money on gas and help the environment? The EPA wants to share some smart driving tips that could give you more miles per gallon of gas and reduce air pollution. Tips like making sure your tires are properly inflated and replacing your air filter regularly. And where possible, accelerate and brake slowly. Be aware of your speed...did you know that for every 5 miles you go over 65 mph, you're spending about 20 cents more per gallon of gas? If you're shopping for a new car, choose the cleanest, most efficient vehicle that meets your needs. If we each adopt just one of these tips, we'd get more miles for our money and it would be a little easier to smell the flowers. For more tips and to compare cleaner, more efficient vehicles, visit www.epa.gov/greenvehicles.

ChildFund®

As we social distance, COVID-19 pushes us apart.

As we help children around the world, we pull together.

The pandemic shows how connected we all are, how the quality of life anywhere affects everyone's health and well-being, everywhere.

Children in the world's poorest places face the gravest risks – not just from COVID-19, but also from its ripple effects, especially hunger. Because when parents can't work, children can't eat. We've never seen a crisis like this.

But ChildFund is helping millions of children across Africa, Asia and the Americas stay connected to what they need to grow up healthy, educated and safe. In the biggest emergency response of ChildFund's 80-year history, we and caring people everywhere are pulling together to make sure that children not only survive the pandemic but thrive beyond it.
